William Prescott Dies After Short Illness

William Howard Prescott, 64, of Elba Alabama, died Thursday, June 28, 1973, in Elba General Hospital after a short illness.

Funeral services were held Friday, June 29, 1973, at 5:00 p.m. in the Elba United Methodist Church with the Rev. Edwin Selts officiating. Burial was in Evergreen Cemetery with Hayes Funeral Home in charge.

Mr. Prescott was a fourth generation native of Coffee County and resided in the Elba area all his life. He was past manager of Coffee County Lake and an avid fish hunter. Mr. Prescott was survived by his wife, Mrs. Allene Harvill Prescott, Elba, Alabama; three daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth P. Swann, Elba, Alabama; Mrs. Chris P. Staley, Elba, Alabama; three brothers, Hugh S. Prescott, Albany Georgia; Gordon (Ted) Prescott, Elba, Alabama; Jack M. Prescott, Elba, Alabama; one sister, Mrs. Mary Elva McKinnon, Crestview, Florida and eight grandchildren.

Q. Since I'll be 65 in a few months, I was planning to come in to the social security office and apply for monthly retirement payments. Do I have to break my leg and can't get around any more, how can I apply now?

A. Call your social security office. Most applications can be completed by telephone if necessary, the people there can arrange to have a representative visit you at home.

devices have been developed to aid the patient with heart disease. While the best known of these are probably the cardiac pacemakers, the public seems, only vaguely understand how pacemakers actually work—if we can judge by the number of "pacemaker" inquiries to the Alabama Heart Association.

The physician uses the pacemaker to supply artificial electrical stimuli to the heart when the normal one is absent due to disease. He is likely to use it to prevent damage has occurred to the normal "conduction system" of the heart. The normal heartbeat is initiated by an electrical discharge, which spreads from the heart along well-defined conduction pathways, which somewhat resemble an electrical wiring system. When the electrical impulse reaches the ventricles (the major pumping chambers of the heart), they contract, and squeeze blood out into the body.

Some diseases of the heart may disturb or destroy the normal pacemaker, or interrupt a part of the conduction system. Under these circumstances, the heart does have reserve mechanisms that can be called into play. Other parts of the heart may act as the pacemaker, and the impulse may be carried by the undisturbed portions of the conduction system. However, when the condition is advanced, the heartbeat may slow down to extremely low levels or stop entirely, causing the heart to fail as a pump. This may lead to weakness, fainting spells, and even on occasion to death of the patient.

In the last two decades, major advances have been made in the use of artificial pacemakers. Initially, these were rather crude devices which depended upon delivering an electrical shock through the intact skin, across the chest wall, using electrical devices plugged into regular electrical outlets. These earlier machines were sometimes lifesaving, but could only be used for relatively brief periods of time and were uncomfortable to the patient. It became apparent that a device would have to be developed which could be attached directly to the heart muscle and which would be supplied by a battery, which would be surgically placed inside the patient's body. These devices were developed and applied successfully for many years. Unfortunately, they required major surgery and exposure of the heart muscle to permit implantation of the wires.

With increasing sophistication, it has recently become possible to install a complete pacemaker system with no more than a minor surgery. The method preserved at present is to place a small wire inside the heart by passing it through a vein exposed under local anesthesia in either the arm or neck of the patient. This "pacing catheter" may be guided into the proper heart chamber under an x-ray machine. Once properly positioned, the pacing catheter is attached to a battery, which is surgically placed under the collarbone. The whole procedure may be executed with little discomfort and in a relatively short period of time.

There are also occasions when pacing is only required for a matter of days or weeks, for example, when the heart is temporarily damaged by a heart attack. In such instances, a temporary pacemaker may be put in, and the battery carried around strapped to the patient's arm. When the heart's conduction system has healed, the pacemaker may be removed.

"DEMAND" PACEMAKERS The simplicity and ease with which pacemakers may be placed in the heart has led physicians to use them more and more freely in patients with conduction disturbances of the heart. This form of treatment is no longer reserved for the most severe and life-threatening forms of conduction disturbance, but may be used safely for relatively mild conduction disturbances. For example, in some patients conduction disturbances tend to occur and go over a period of time, and "demand" pacemakers have been developed which will automatically cut off when the patient's heart beats normally and cut on when the conduction disturbance develops. Statistics have been accumulated which show that pacemakers unquestionably are able to prolong the life and improve the well-being of patients with severe conduction disturbances of the heart.

Use of cardiac pacemakers is not entirely without its problems, however. The main problem stems from the fact that most of the pacemakers in use now operate from batteries, and that the batteries must be changed from time to time. Since batteries are implanted within the body, this necessitates minor surgery and some inconvenience to the patient. Normally, batteries must be changed at intervals of approximately two years. Within the last few months, however, initial trials have been made of new systems which may require very infrequent battery changes.

Use of the pacemakers has become a routine part of the care of patients with heart disease. Patients with pacemakers can usually lead entirely normal lives. Devices of increasing reliability and durability are being developed, and there is promise that the problem of treating conduction disturbances of the heart will be completely solved.

men of the long range plans of the school board, going back several years reminding them of the many capital outlay projects completed since the school was bombed and the gym burned. In these plans were the wiring of the Jr. High building and the future air conditioning of all classrooms and the renovating of the vocational building as an administrative office for the superintendent and his staff.

School Board member Everett Kelley said, "I strongly believe Mr. Taylor could function better away from all the details of the city council concerning a reported planned renovation of the old vocational building. School Board Chairman Elmer Taylor, Superintendent of Elba City Schools, was in Atlanta and Washington the latter part of June regarding these two programs. The ESSA program is funded out of Atlanta District Office and the Right to Read program is funded out of the Washington Office. He was told in Washington and later from Congressman Bill Dickinson of Elba that Elba City, along with Huntsville City and the Montgomery County School System, constituted the only three systems in the State of Alabama being funded through the Right to Read program.

The Right to Read program will initiate a basic diagnostic-prescriptive approach to reading for students in grades 1-4. The first part of the school year will be devoted to individualized instruction; the latter part geared to clinical services given by the reading specialists to the most needy students.

The ESSA program will encompass special instructional services and materials in remedial reading and mathematics for students in grades 1-4. Both the ESSA and the Right to Read programs will be geared toward the program of individualized learning that has been implemented in the Elba City Schools during the last three years.

Comprehensive planning, implementing and evaluating are integral parts of both programs. An intensive staff training program will be conducted during the 1973-74 school year.

Mr. Leroy Miller has announced that there are still some stadium seats available in the football stadium. The seats cost $100 and these, as the ones sold in the past belong to the purchaser for as long as they purchase the annual season tickets.

Miller also noted that the Elba football season begins the last week in August this year.

The vastness lurking like watery graves.
The frothy white like an old man's hair,
The dark purple pulling me ever there.

The wonderful soil that falls through my hand,
The high hills on yonder land, my hand,
The high hills on yonder land,
The soil that is not a grave for long,
It sprouts forth newness for the soul and frond
Give me the land, and you take the sea,

Letter To The Editor

June 15, 1973
The Elba Clipper
Elba, Alabama 36323
Dear Editor:

The Alabama Society for Crippled Children and Adults is a volunteer health organization. It conducts a program to meet the unmet needs of the handicapped through a network of Comprehensive Centers, Evaluation Training Facilities and 13 Rehabilitation Centers and Facilities from Muscle Shoals to Mobile.

The program was begun in 1926 and its goal is total rehabilitation implying not only physical restoration, vocational adjustment and training, but also personal and social adjustment.

Now through a partnership with the State Vocational Rehabilitation program and through the sale of Easter Seals and/or United Appeal contributions in Elba has been through mail in contributions. Last year the response was good but this year the response was disappointing. I feel that this is due to the national advertising of the March of Dimes during the March of Dimes drive. As you know, the March of Dimes is now directing its efforts toward research in birth defects.

Research in the field of birth defects is necessary but, in the meantime, millions of babies continue to be born with defects and correcting these defects, training the handicapped to be productive and to lead a life of harmony with others is the goal of the Easter Seal Society.

Senator Sparkman Answers Questions

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: Three years ago I received a letter from an auto insurance company advising me my policy had been cancelled and it sent me a refund. Then, in January of 1971 I received another statement from the same company stating that the policy had been cancelled. This didn't bother me since I knew it was already cancelled—over three years ago. Then they sent me a bill for 2 years worth of delinquent premiums on a policy that did not exist. Then came a number of dunning and threatening letters from a collection agency. I have written numerous letters to the insurance company and the collection agency but they never answer. Do not understand how I can be held liable for premiums on an insurance policy which did not exist during the period for which I am being billed. I would appreciate your help.

SPARKMAN: I have been in touch with the collection agency and the insurance company regarding your situation. The collection agency, upon hearing of the nature of the dispute, ceased all collection activity.

DEAR SENATOR SPARKMAN: In recent months I have read a number of articles regarding the Elba School and you have been mistaken broken into the homes of law abiding citizens. This is a shocking state of affairs, and I hope you will do something to prevent this kind of thing from happening again. M.M., Kinston

SPARKMAN: I was shocked and dismayed upon hearing of these raids on the homes of law-abiding citizens and have registered a strong protest to the Department of Justice. I am advised that a full investigation has been initiated.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO READERS: A limited supply of U. S. Constitutions is available in my office. Anyone wishing to obtain a copy may send a postal card or letter to Senator Jim Sparkman, 3203 New Senate Building, Washington, D. C., 20510.

Restoration Of School Prayer Remains An Active Senate Issue

Ten years ago the Supreme Court started a vast majority of the American people by banning prayers in our public schools. This decision struck at the very roots of the American way of life and at a source of our national character and greatness.

By its refusal to allow little school children to bow their heads in morning prayers, the Court upset an important segment of our educational system that is not only aimed at developing school children's minds but also at awakening their hearts and spirits.

Americans have been taught from childhood about our religious heritage—a heritage that is a very real and an important part of American history.

The Founding Fathers had no intention of separating prayer from government. As a matter of fact on the very day that the First Amendment was approved, Congress called upon President Washington to declare a national day of thanksgiving and prayer. Today, both Houses of Congress open their daily sessions with prayer; prayer is an important part of inauguration ceremonies of the President and of our Governors; and even Supreme Court sessions are opened with prayer.

Now, I am a firm believer in our tradition and constitutional guarantee of separation of church and state. But separation of church and state does not mean that the Government must disassociate itself from the worship of God.

I am happy to say that the restoration of prayer to the classroom is an issue that has not been allowed to die. A recent poll taken by a nationally known television program showed that 80 percent of those responding said that they favored school prayer. The citizens of three States have voted overwhelmingly in favor of school prayer, and in my travels throughout Alabama I have found that the great majority of Alabamians strongly favor the restoration of school prayer.

During each of the three sessions of Congress of which I have been a member of the Senate, I have, along with other Senators, authored constitutional amendments which I feel would satisfy the Court's objections.

The prayer amendment, by its voluntary provisions, is intended only to reaffirm the right of religious expression. I feel that a previous right has been denied the American people for too many years already. A great wrong has been done and Congress should act at once to repair this wrong. In doing so we will return to the people a right which is really theirs but which has been denied them by action of the Supreme Court.

"HOW TO BUILD UP YOUR CHURCH"

From time to time, we discover that our churches need a shot in the arm. We realize that it isn't one person's job but we all share in the growth and thus in the work of building up our churches. We need the strength which strong churches can offer to our community. Here are some thoughts on building up your church -- however small or large, it may be.

1. Be in your place unless prevented by some reason, which you can conscientiously give to your Lord and Master.

2. Pray for your minister and the congregation before you leave your home for church. Don't fail in doing this.

3. Pray as you are seated in church.

4. Never engage in any conversation or act after entering to interrupt the public thoughts or the thoughts of others from worship.

5. During the time of meditation or prayer thank God for your Sunday School and pray for his blessings upon the officers, teachers and pupils.

6. Never carry what you think to be faults of any of our members away from the church. If tempted to do so, look at the faults of others and see beautiful souls whose life is an inspiration to you.

7. During the week call upon at least one person with an invitation to attend church or to become a Christian.

8. Pray for your church every day in all phases of its work.

9. Tithing your income. Bring your tithes and offerings to the church and dedicate them to God's Kingdom.

Try these suggestions not just one week but continually and see what happens to your church and see how God will work in your life to have a better community, home and family.

Revival at Elba United Methodist Church

IN THE GARDEN

July is the month for vacations. However, you should not leave your garden over a long period at this time of year. Crops continue to bear, weeds grow, and insects flourish. Get a friend or neighbor to at least do some regular harvesting.

If you plant late tomatoes make every effort to get the most disease resistant varieties. Diseases and nematodes are much worse on the late crop. Marion, Manahelic and Manaple have good resistance to wilt and grey leaf spot. Atkinson, Better Boy and Bonnie's Nematode Resistant have good resistance to root knot nematodes.

Anyone growing late tomatoes in the garden must plan to spray or dust weekly with an insecticide and fungicide. Those who seed late tomatoes should immediately do so.

BAHAGRASS

Do you have a bahagrass problem in your Bermuda or Zoysia grass lawn? There are two herbicides that will control bahagrass in these two lawn grasses. They are MSMA and DSMA. Be sure to follow the label closely when using these herbicides. The label says to use them on a temporary yellowing of the grass.

LAWNS

I visited with Mr. and Mrs. Porter Bragg of Enterprise concerning their St. Augustine grass. This grass was dying in spots. After close examination, I found a heavy infestation of chinch bugs.

I recommended the use of one of the following insecticides and apply it as soon as possible.

Speaking of lawns, now is the time to apply a second application of fertilizer to keep your lawn green and growing during the summer. You can make a third application about the last of August. I found a heavy infestation of chinch bugs.

Remember The TB "Bus"

Remember the TB "bus" on the corner with lines of people waiting to be X-rayed? The scene is disappearing.

For years, the mobile X-ray unit was a standard way of finding out who had TB. But the times, and the problem of TB, are changing.

The number of people with active TB and those with tuberculous infections have declined over the last decades. Taking drugs can prevent infections from developing into active disease. And even when active disease develops, drugs can make the patient non-contagious within a short time.

However, there are still people who have active TB and do not know it. And when they have live TB germs in their sputum, they can spread the disease just by coughing and sneezing.

But back to the disappearing TB bus. The fact is that mobile X-ray units surveying general populations find too few cases. Over 95% of people with new or reactivated TB are found by other means than mass X-ray screening in the community-at-large. Even in the inner city and ghettos, where the incidence of TB is higher, today most active TB is discovered because the person has symptoms and seeks medical advice.

Some common symptoms of TB are coughing a lot, feeling tired all the time, spitting blood, and losing weight. And one or all of these symptoms can mean TB.

To find out more about ways to detect TB, contact Christmas Seal Headquarters, Box 904, Dothan, Alabama. They have the facts!

Burch-Reeves Wed June 8th

Miss Bobbie Jean Burch of Samson and Maxwell A. Reeves, Jr., were united in marriage June 8, at 6:30 p.m. in the home of the bride with Rev. David Richbury officiating in the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burch of Samson, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell A. Reeves Sr. of Elba. The wedding music was presented by Mrs. Ralph Pate, pianist and Miss Patricia Childs who sang "The Twelfth of Never" and the "Wedding Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown of white crepe, with modified bodice, featuring a yoke, high neckline and long sleeves accented with lace trim. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was attached to a beaded Juliet lace cap. She carried a "colonial" bouquet of daisies, carnations and baby's breath, centered with an orchid.

Miss Becky Burch, twin sister of the bride was maid of honor. She wore an empire waisted gown of pink crepe. The bride was accompanied with a boero and the long sleeves were caught at the wrists forming a ruffle. Her headpiece was of matching net with petals, and she carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

The groom's father was his best man.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception in the home.

After a brief wedding trip to Callaway Gardens, the couple will reside in Troy where they will continue their education at Troy State University.

The groom's parents entertained the wedding party with a dinner at the Hickory House Inn the night prior to the wedding.

KITCHEN SHOWER

The bride-elect was honored at a kitchen shower in the home of Mrs. Rungo Baine. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Sam Stephens, Miss Linda Dean, and Miss Kay Davis.

The honoree was presented a novelty corsage. Games were played and each guest shared their favorite recipe with the honoree.

The refreshment table was covered with a beige lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink carnations. Punch, party cakes and sandwiches were served to the following guests: Mrs. Robert Burch, Mrs. Maxwell A. Reeves Sr., Mrs. Bill Kennedy, Mrs. Charlie Davis, Mrs. Chuck Owens, Miss Genua Powell, Miss Thea Sane, Miss Billy June Stephenson, Miss Debbie Powell, and Miss Becky Burch.

TEA SHOWER

A tea shower was given at the home of Mrs. Phil Dean. Mrs. Howard Becham greeted the guests and introduced them to the receiving line which consisted of Mrs. Dean, the honoree, Mrs. Robert Burch, Mrs. Maxwell A. Reeves Sr., Misses Becky and Beverly Burch, sisters of the bride-to-be.

The bride's table was covered with a green cloth topped with white lace. A green and white color scheme was chosen. Punch was served from a crystal punch bowl. Yellow and white flowers accented the candelabrum.

Miss Melissa Dean and Miss Cathi Caldwell served punch cakes and nuts to the guests. Registering the guests was Miss Linda Dean.

Approximately 70 guests called during the evening.

DAY CAMP AT HUMMING HILLS -- 1973

JUNIOR SCOUTS PERFORM AROUND THE CAMPFIRE.
"HE WENT THAT-A-WAY."

CADETTES AND VISITORS WATCH OTHERS PERFORM AT SKIT-TIME.

BROWNIE UNIT - LEADERS AND HELPERS

FLY-UP UNIT (FROM BROWNIES TO JUNIOR SCOUTS)

About six miles from Elba, nestled in the pines and oaks and sweet gum trees, lies the Girl Scout Camp of Humming Hills. There are two ways to get to the camp from the highway -- the upper route, which takes you across the dam at one end of the lake, down a hill, up another, round a pine tree or two or three, over a protruding roof -- or there's the lower route -- by the caretaker's house, around a curve, through a small garden, round a pine tree or two or three, and over a protruding roof.

The second way is preferred, but either way, this backwoods trail will lead you to the main troop house -- "the house that cookies built" -- and its surrounding residences.

Inside this troop house, Scouts do things they once did in tents -- hot tents -- wet, soggy tents -- floorless tents. This year they built terrariums with green ferns, pine limbs, sand and rocks; they made pink, green and orange sand candles; they painted pictures on rocks they had collected -- rabbits, mushrooms, a horse, a foot, an Indian with a big nose -- all with acrylic paints. The girls also meet here for general instructions, to get equipment, lie down if they get sick, and in general find a respite from the bare facets of Nature -- such as hot sun, insects, nettles, ants, etc.

The troop house also has a stove, refrigerator, sinks, cabinets, rods for hanging clothes, and a huge fireplace -- maybe for an inside "campfire" if the weather prevents the usual roaring blaze in the center of the log circle outside.

One day the girls visited the fire tower with Ranger Gordon Drewery, and had a surprise visit from Smokey Bear, another day they were given some tips on survival by soldiers from Ft. Rucker. These included advice from what to do if bitten by a snake to what to eat if you get without the usual food fare -- and that was fried silkworms and chocolate covered ants. Most Scouts and leaders were brave enough to try the "different" food, but the chicken-hearted said they "were on diets."

Each unit can now be at home in a large tent mounted on a platform -- a far cry from the days when rainwater slipped under the tents onto Scouts in sleeping bags (because the necessary trench wasn't dug around the tent). There is a central rest-room and shower building, with large sinks outside for washing up after working in the woods.

Juniors and Cadettes spent one night at the camp, and their campfire program was presented by each unit with skits. A few parents were on hand to watch their girls perform.

Girls and personnel from Elba were: Brownies -- Karen Grider, Melissa Kennett; Cadettes -- Susie Bruce, Julie Holiday, Program Aides -- Wilma Anderson (Smokey Bear No. 1), Wendy Anderson (Smokey Bear No. 2); Camp Site Committee -- Bynne Bruce, Olive Ray Martin, Development Committee Chairman -- Fred Clark.

Local Group Cuts Album

The Missions - The commission stated in the Gospel of Matthew "Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo I am with you always, even unto the end of the world" embodies the purpose of the MISSIONS.

It is the desire of the group to be soul winners for the Lord Jesus Christ and not to be entertainers. They have been together since February of 1972; they attend church at the First Assembly of God in Enterprise and the Battens Cross Roads Assembly of God church near Enterprise.

In March of this year, they went to Nashville, Tennessee to cut an album. The album, "Touching Jesus With the Missions" has just recently been released, and is "furthering the Gospel of Christ in an attempt to reach souls for Jesus that we may never be privileged to sing and witness to in person." Members of the group are: Billy Joe Watson, singing lead; Geraldine Motley, singing alto; Foster Motley, singing baritone; Linda Davis, pianist; James Rogers, Drums; Edward Forehand, Bass Guitar. And as they often say after their introductions, "this makes up The Missions, and we love the Lord."

Second Generation Joins Firm

"Bugs" Dismukes has joined the sales staff at Dismukes Ford, a spring graduate of the University of Alabama, is now working in the business, receiving a Bachelor of Science Degree. A native of Enterprise, he has worked for his father's dealership for a number of years during summer vacations and during mid-year. He has experience in all phases of the business. His training began by washing cars and progressed through experience in the body shop, service and parts departments.

After graduation Bugs returned to Enterprise with his wife, Kathy, also a native of Enterprise, to make their home.

BAYOU LaBATRE LEADING SEAPORT

Bayou La Batre, Alabama, may not be a name known as many others on the map, but it is getting to be the best known name in the country for its production of seafood. The romantic sea sounds as if it were the spot famed song writer Hank Williams had in mind when he wrote "Jambalaya."

However the lyrics are contrary to the hard working crews which go out on thousands of trips yearly for seafood.

The Bayou La Batre Annual Blessing of the Fleet, this year on July 29, spotlights the significance of the boats, crews and the important production of seafood served the nation over: shrimp, flounder, crabs, pompano, trout, snapper and many other kinds of fish which would delight any palate for variety and deliciousness. With a carnival-like atmosphere prevails. Visitors enjoy the delicious seafood served at several locations, ride the beautifully decorated trailers in the boat parade, take thousands of pictures, and many come back each year with the other thousands to view and take part in the spectacle.

Parishioners work year round to prepare for the one day event, and hard working but proud crewmen come from the Gulf at the height of the season to get ready for the Annual Blessing of the Fleet at Bayou La Batre.

This is the 24th Annual Fleet Blessing now under the Guidance of Fr. Kevin Duignan, Pastor of the Parish.

APPLES

J. R. SPEED

In myth and in history the apple is probably the most famous of all fruits. Eve ate an apple and caused the fall of man; Sir Isaac Newton saw an apple fall and discovered the law of gravity; William Tell won his freedom-- and fame -- for shooting an apple off his son's head; and Greek and Roman myths are full of apples as symbols of love and beauty.

But apples have a far more practical purpose -- they "keep the doctor away". The contain Vitamin C, which is needed for healthy cell and tissues and for resistance to infection, and Vitamin A, which promotes better vision and body growth and aids in digestion and nerve health. Pectin and malic acids also found in apples, absorb body toxins as well as improving digestion.

Recent nutritional research studies have shown that babies who are fed apple juice have fewer rashes and stomach troubles and that apples help keep the body cholesterol level down.

Apples may be the salvation of the dieter too. An average apple has about 90 calories, but is bulk producing, so it satisfies hunger while its natural sugars give quick energy.

Another plus of apples is their availability. Actually a member of the rose family, apples are widely grown and can be found fresh year round. The months of July and August see a silly-giggle supply, but Alabama is developing an apple industry that will help supply some of the nation's demand during those months.

Several varieties are presently grown commercially in Alabama. The earliest maturing of these is Lodi, a tart, soft green skinned apple. Lodi is normally harvested from early mid-June. Its shelf life is very short, so it should be used as soon as possible. Most people consider it too tart to eat raw, but it is excellent for sauce, which can be frozen or canned.

Red delicious was the most important variety in the U. S. also grows well in Alabama. Although the red skin color may occasionally not develop as intensely as it does in cooler climates, the eating quality is not impaired. Quality is often mistaken correlated with skin color, but the real test is the fruit's taste. Alabama Red Delicious apples are excellent for eating out of hand. Their sweet, mellow flavor also adds something special to a cold meat or fruit salad.

Probably the most versatile of the apple varieties grown in Alabama is the Golden Delicious although their appearance is often marred by russet, this rough skin does not detract from the fruits flavor. This variety is excellent for cold salads, pies, and sauce; it bakes well and freezes well for future baking.

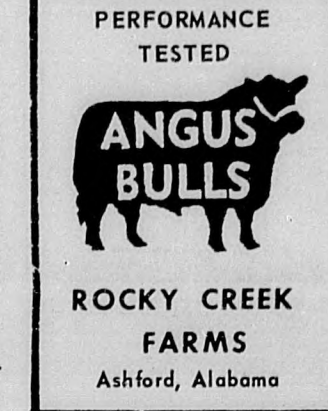

It's best to buy the kind of apples you need for a particular use. But no matter what kind you buy or how you eat them you'll be eating the original health food, the one that never goes out of style. Apples, often called, Natures toothbrush, clean teeth and massage the gums. Eating one apple removes over 30 percent more bacteria from the mouth than 3 minute brushing and a gargle.

Persons admitted to Elba General Hospital during the period of July 3 through 10 are as follows: Lois Austin, James P. Deal, James M. Marler, Feotis Hornaby, Mary Frances Young, J. W. # BILL BRUNSON WINS HAROLD DEAL INVITATIONAL TOURNAMENT

LADIES WAIT FOR FINAL RESULTS IN COOL CLUBHOUSE

WE THOUGHT GOLF WAS FOR THE EXERCISE

MRS. DEAL AWARDS TROPHY

SPECTATORS WATCH GOLFERS IN ACTION

3 BRUNDIDGE GIRLS PATIENTLY AWAIT RESULTS

Bill Brunson of Enterprise came to Elba Saturday morning to play golf, and that he did. Not only did he win the Harold Deal Invitational Tournament for the second time, but he broke the tournament record of 109 by six shots, set by Ed Brown of Montgomery in 1969.

In his assault on par, Bill featured an assortment of trouble shots with short irons comparable to nothing I have seen before. Although he had trouble keeping the driver in the fairway, he scrambled his way to a six under par 66 to capture medalist honors and gain a comfortable eight shot lead over Troy State teammate Mike Hall of Brundidge. Brunson was under par for the last round until a double bogey on the final hole cost him a one over par 37 and a 27 hole total of 103. Hall, though hitting the ball straight off the tee as always, had putter trouble and wound up a distant second at 111. Joe Cassidy, Jr., of Enterprise shot 114 for third place honors in the "A" Division of the Championship flight.

In the "B" Division of the Championship Flight, high school sensation Will Matthews of Ozark captured first place with a score of 113. Bill Bailey of Evergreen and Larry Jacobs of Elba tried for second, with Bailey winning in a playoff.

In the "C" Division, Ronnie Burns of Enterprise Country Club fired a 113 to capture first place honors. Second place was won by Robert E. Lee golfer Emile Vaughan of Montgomery, while Charles Clark of Luverne finished third.

The "D" Division was won by local golfer Dale Crowe, who shot a five over par 113. Darwin Candler of Montgomery finished second, while James Swan, also of Montgomery won third honors.

In the first flight, former member of our club Bill Maddox shot 114 to win. M. V. Stokes of Andalusia was second, and Ferrell Hudson of Elba third.

The second flight was won by Howard Maddox of Enterprise with a total of 120. Bill Gammill, also of Enterprise, was second, and Ferrell Boutwell of Troy won third prize.

Earl Adkison of Enterprise shot 126 to win the third flight. Art Stivers of Elba won second place honors, with third going to Coach Jim Blair of Troy State.

In the fourth flight, Bobby Hooks of Dothan won first place with a score of 128. Buford Rachel of DeFuniak Springs was second, and Everette Kelley of Elba third.

Fifth flight honors went to Cabert Mills of Elba with a score of 132. There was a tie for second and third between Ronnie Vaughan of Elba and Charley Searcy of Enterprise.

FARM PONDS
Farm ponds continue to be a big item among Coffee County farmers even though REAP cost-shares have been terminated. Andy Harris of New Brockton, recently completed a 4-acre lake that he plans to stock with bream and bass. Other, competing ponds are John Asher of Woodland Grove, Greely Bradley of Asbury, and Clifford Kelley of New Brockton.

Mr. Kelley built two ponds and plans to stock one with bream and bass and the other with catfish. Mr. Asher and Mr. Bradley's ponds are primarily for livestock water. The Soil Conservation Service will still help landowners with their ponds, even though, there are no cost shares. Anyone desiring assistance should contact the SCS office in the new office building at New Brockton.

Most of us take pride in our country's outdoor beauty. We talk about it, write about it, and take pictures of it. On the other hand, we are also guilty of destroying much of this natural beauty with thoughtless littering. Litter doesn't throw itself along the roadside, in lakes and streams, and other public property. People spread litter and only people can stop it.

Showmanship School Held Here

The American Polled Hereford Association and Vocational Agriculture Livestock Department of Auburn University sponsored a showmanship school on the W. H. Taylor Farm July 12-13. The purpose of the school was to teach grooming, showing and feeding show cattle. Twenty-one adults and nine juniors from throughout Alabama and Florida completed the school. Demonstrations and discussions were given, after which each student made a rope halter to use on their animal during the school.

Everyone was given an animal and required to clip, wash, groom and show; they were judged on this animal. Awards were presented to the top five with the highest total points received. The winners were: Adults - 1st - Harold Baxley, Graceville, Fla.; 2nd - D. C. Fleming, Evergreen; 3rd - John Ward, Castleberry; 4th - Ronny Shavers, Lytleton; and Randall Laramore, Tuskegee. Juniors: 1st - Greg Baxley, Graceville, Fla.; 2nd - Chris Sessions, Elba; 3rd - Tammy Thagard, Brantley; 4th - Jamie Hudson, Elba; 5th - Mike Smith, Spruce Pine.

The instructors were Lucian Welly, area coordinator, American Polled Hereford Assn.; H. N. Lewis, Voc. Agriculture Livestock Specialist, Auburn; Carl Fink, Elba; Pat Awall, Carrollton, Ga.; and Bill Taylor, Elba.

FIRE REPORT

The Elba Fire Department reports no fires for the period of July 10 through 17.

Officers Get

Moonshine Still

Coffee County Sheriff Ralph Sparks, Deputy Neil Grantham, ABC Agents Free and Shaw, and two Federal agents last Sunday broke up a portable whiskey still, which had been in operation only two or three months. The still was located in the Antioch Church Community, in Northeast Coffee County, two miles off the main road.

The still contained 9 barrels of mash, and the officers recovered 20 gallons of the liquor. They said the still was producing 50 gallons per week. A 1966 Chevrolet was also confiscated. L. J. Harris, a colored male from Glenwood, and Carlton Lee Qualls, a white male from Goshen, were apprehended at the still. They were taken to the Coffee County Jail in Elba, and later transferred to Dothan by Federal authorities.

This is the third still break-up in a five-mile area since Grantham has been a Deputy Sheriff. His department had received a tip about six months ago, and had the still under surveillance about two weeks. They said the operators did not run it regularly, but apparently only on week-ends.

Elba Library Gets

Brand New Books

Mrs. Mary Dowling, librarian of the Elba Library, and Beth Dahlke, assistant, open a batch of new books given recently by the Cross Trails Regional Library. There are 65 books; they were purchased for the Cross Trails libraries by a grant from the state of Alabama through the Alabama Public Library Service. Mrs. Dowling and other librarians from the Cross Trails area attended a workshop in Opp last Thursday, where the books were presented.

JUNIOR ROTC

PLANS CAR WASH ON FRIDAY

The Elba Junior ROTC sponsors will have a car wash on Friday, July 20, from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m.; and on Saturday from 7:30 to 11:30 a.m. at Jack's Auto and Truck, next to the Big R. Donations will be $1.00.

Co-op Members To Meet

In Andy August 9

The 1973 annual membership meeting of Covington Electric Cooperative will be held Thursday night, August 9, at the Municipal Stadium in Andalusia. Co-op officials stated registration of members would begin at 5:30 p.m., with the entertainment program starting at 6:30, and the business session at 7:15 p.m.

Featured speaker for the meeting will be Dr. George Donaldson of Tifton, Georgia, one of the South's top humorists.

Prior to his recent retirement from active business affairs, he served as President of Abraham Baldwin College, and Executive Secretary of the Georgia Agricultural Commodity Commission for Peanuts. Possessor of a rib-ticking sense of humor, Dr. Donaldson's topic will be "They don't Slack Peanuts No More". Entertainment will also be provided by the "Singing Seer Family", of Nashville, Tennessee, one of the nation's top gospel singing groups which has performed throughout much of the United States, and in Canada.

Some 30 electrical appliances including a 23 inch color television set and an electric range will be awarded as attendance prizes. In addition, each Co-op member will receive a free gift.

During the business session, Covington Electric members will receive reports on operations of the Cooperative, and elect two members to three year terms on the Board of Trustees.

Concession stands will be open for the convenience of those attending the meeting. Covington Electric serves more than 12,800 consumers in Covington, Coffee, Crenshaw, Dale and Geneva counties.
